EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

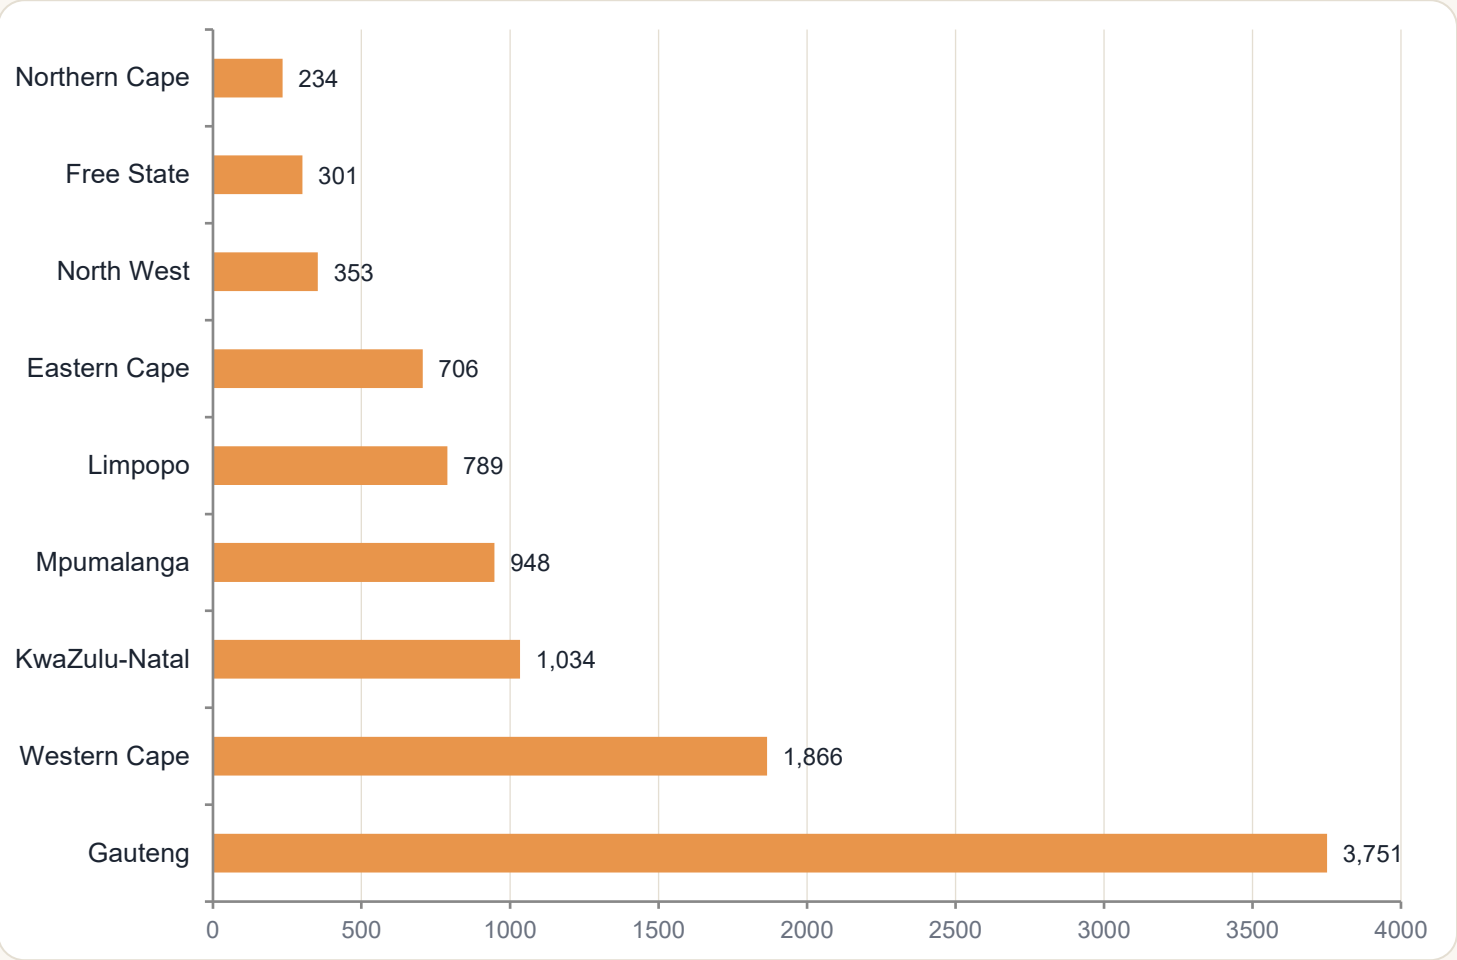
Where BrightTV stands today

9,982	37.6%	70.3%	90%
TOTAL VIEWERS	GAUTENG SHARE	WEEKDAY VIEWING	MALE SKEW

Key takeaways

- Audience is heavily concentrated in Gauteng & Western Cape (56% of viewers)
- Male viewers dominate at ~90% — a significant gender opportunity gap
- Young Adults (25–34) drive ~43% of consumption — primary monetisation segment
- Monday & Sunday under-index on viewing — content scheduling opportunity
- Sport (SuperSport, ICC) and music (Channel O, Trace) anchor top consumption

Provincial viewer distribution



INSIGHT

Two metros carry the audience

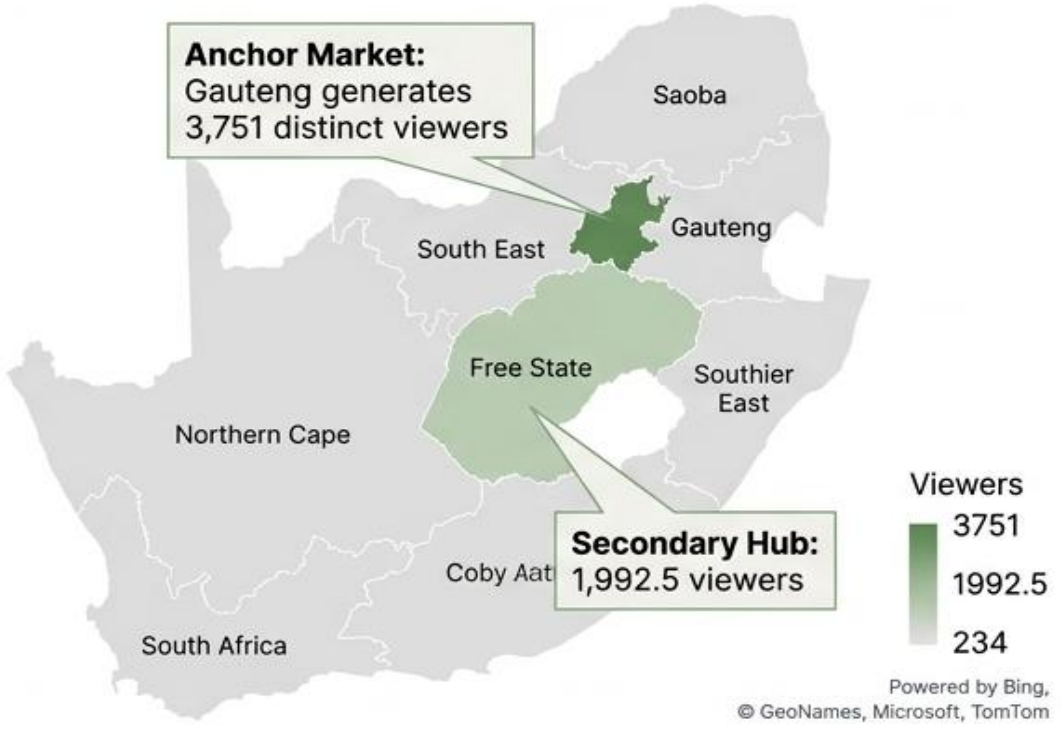
Gauteng (37.6%) and Western Cape (18.7%) account for 56% of viewers.

Northern Cape, Free State and North West are deeply under-penetrated — combined < 9%.

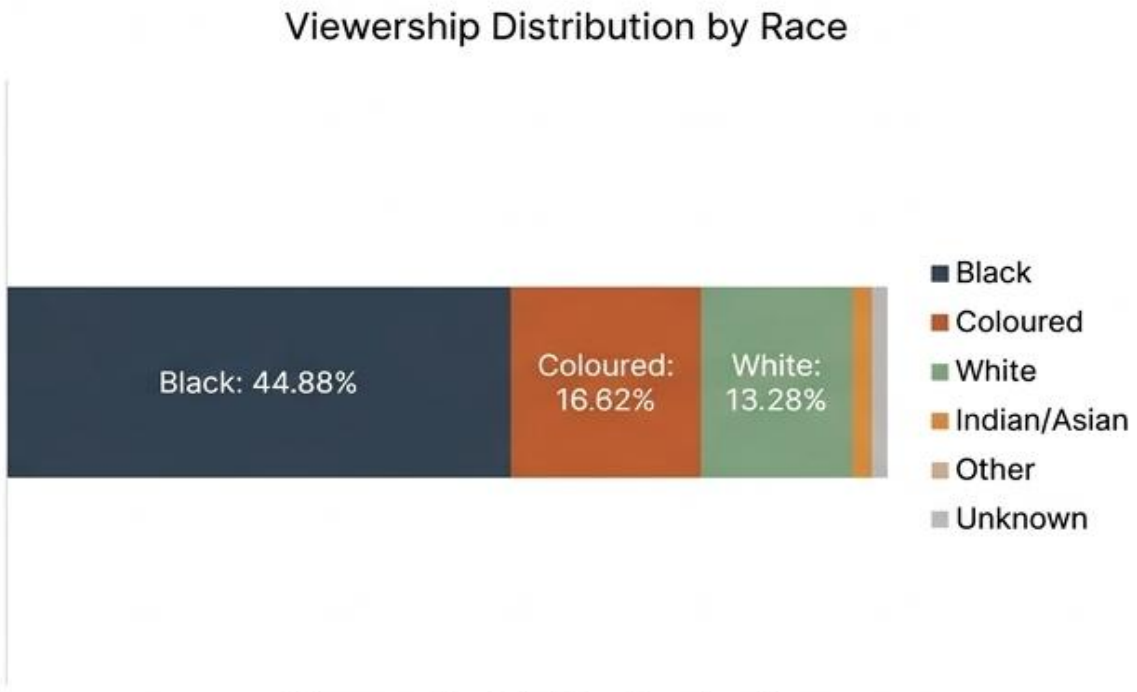
→ Province-tiered pricing & localised marketing in under-served regions can unlock the next 1M subs.

The BrightTV Stronghold: National Penetration Matrix

Geographic Insights



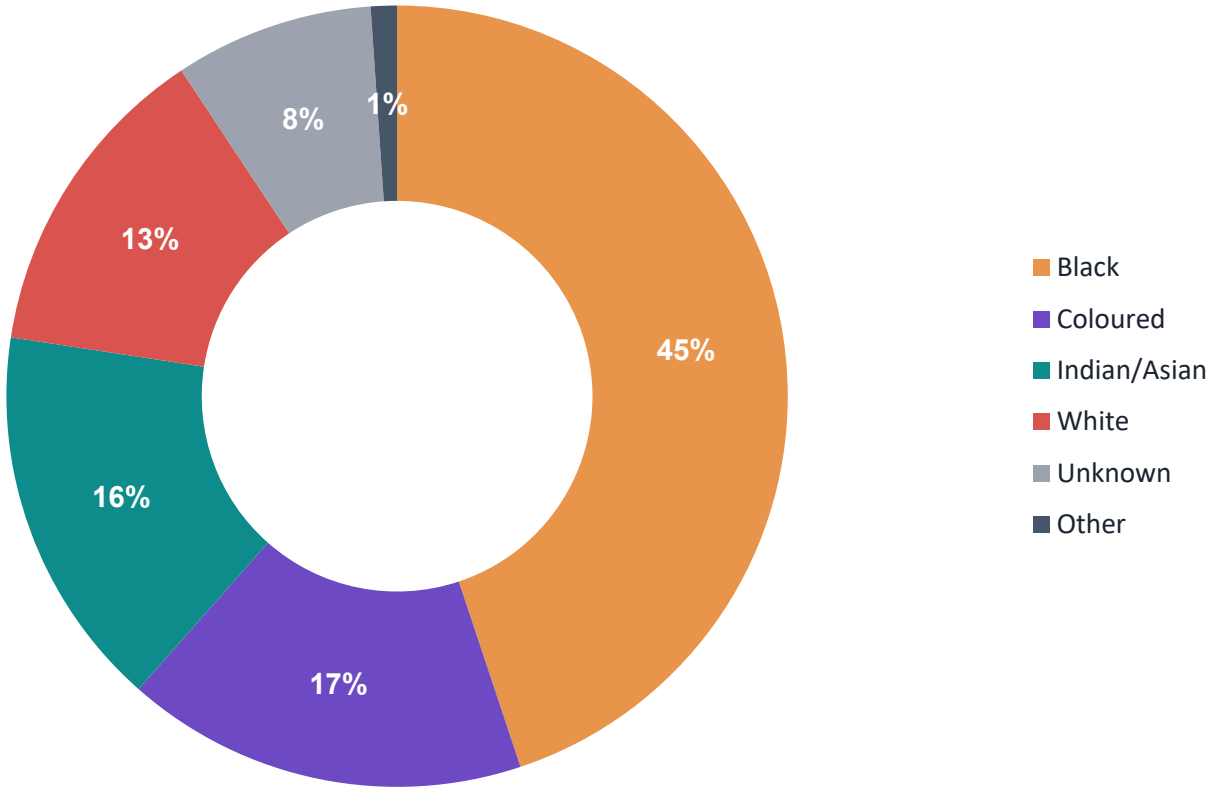
Demographic Insights



Viewership Distribution by Race

Strategic Insight: Marketing spend currently yields the highest ROI in high-density, Black-majority metropolitan areas.

Share of viewers by population group



INSIGHT

Black, urban majority

Black audiences make up 45% of viewers — by far the largest group.

Indian/Asian (16%) and Coloured (17%) are over-indexed vs. national share — a sticky niche to defend.

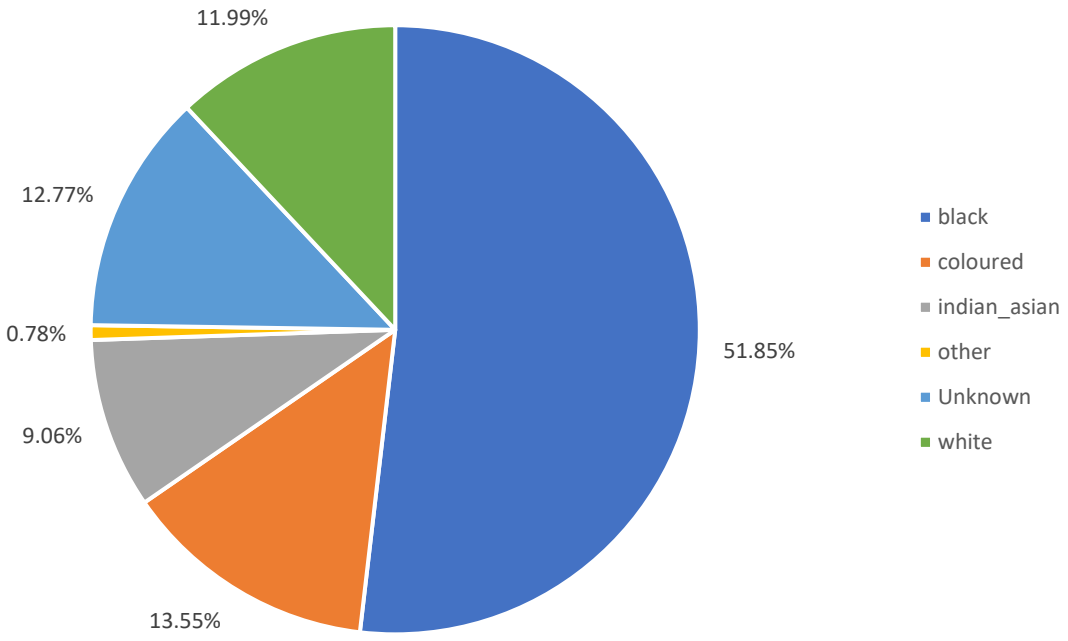
Marketing ROI peaks in high-density, Black-majority residential areas.

8% 'Unknown' signals incomplete onboarding profiles to fix.

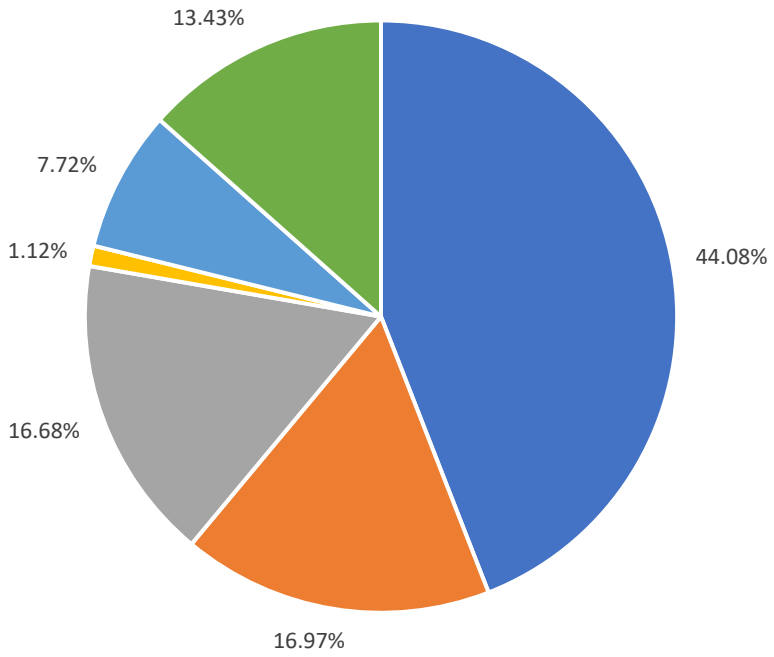
Demographic: Male & Female

Where the audience is concentrated.

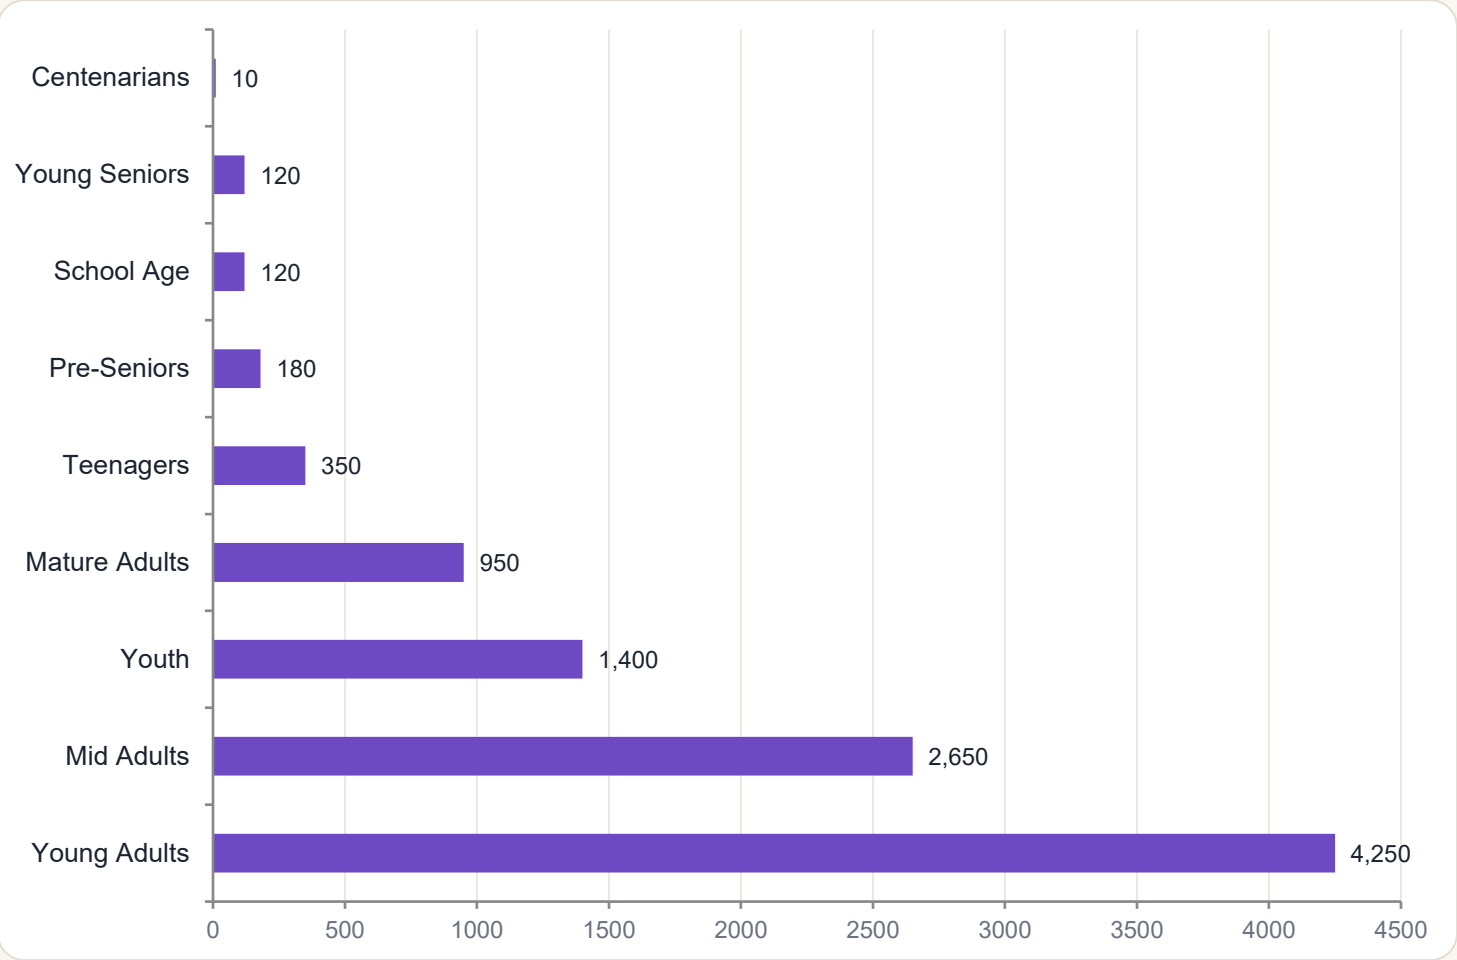
Viewership Distribution for Females



Viewership Distribution for Males



Viewers by life-stage segment



INSIGHT

Young Adults dominate

Young Adults (25–34) = 4,250 viewers — 43% of the base.

Combined 18–44 cohort = ~83% of viewing — primary monetisation target.

Teen & senior tails are thin — opportunity for family bundles & kids content.

Male vs female viewing share

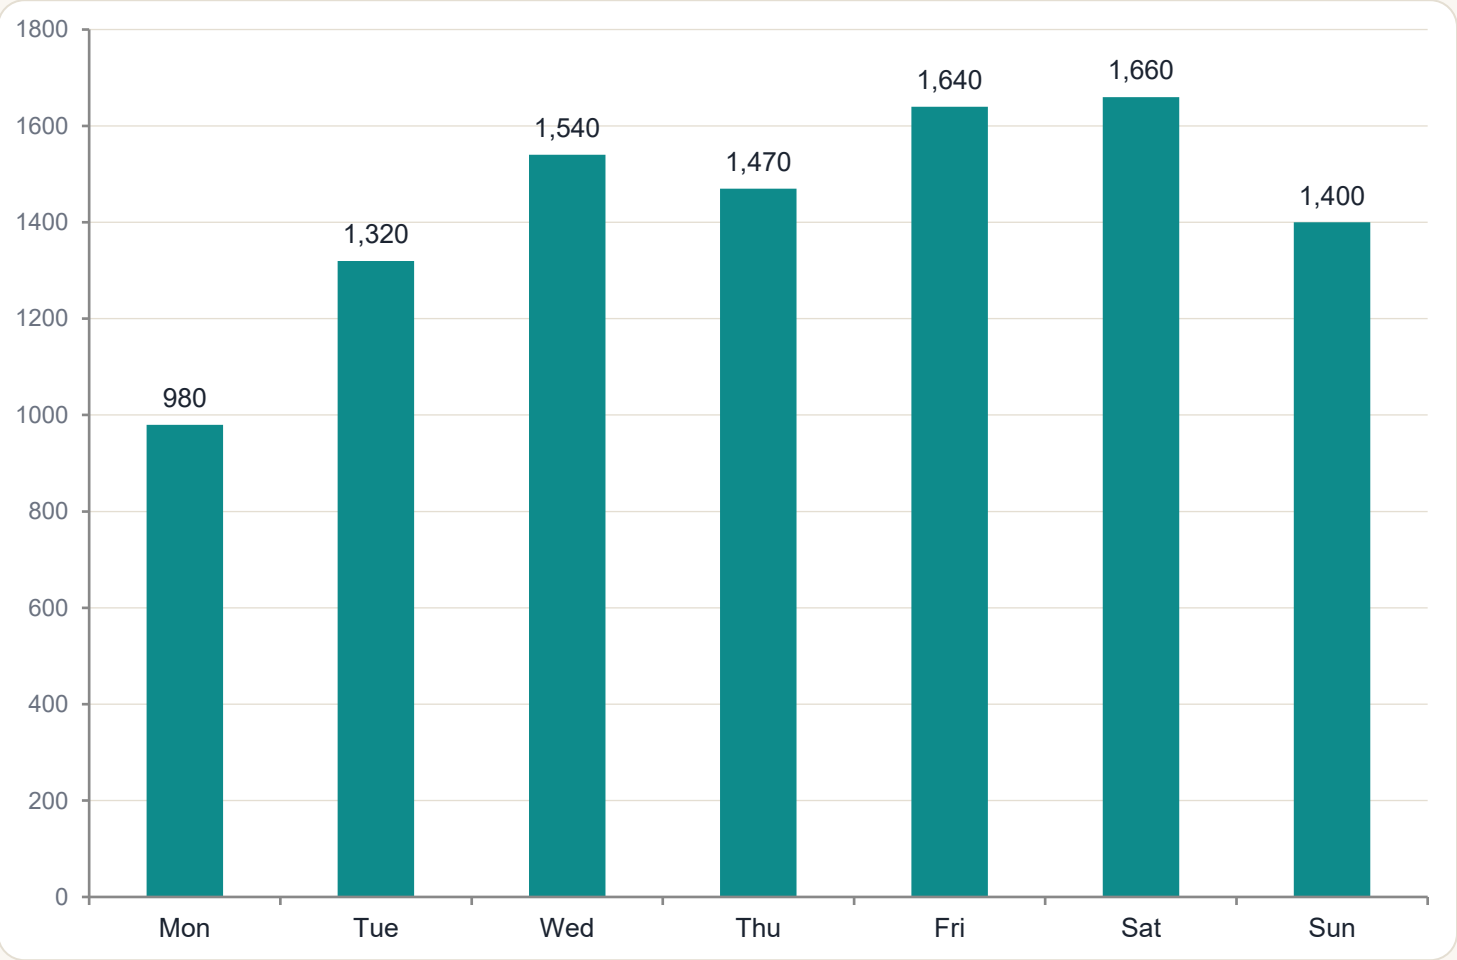
A stark gender gap

~90% of viewing comes from male audiences across both weekdays and weekends.

Female share is just 7.17% on weekdays and 3.11% on weekends — a major addressable gap.

→ Commission women-led drama, lifestyle & reality formats; partner with retailers (Clicks, Dis-Chem).

Viewers by day of the week



LOW DAYS

Monday & Sunday

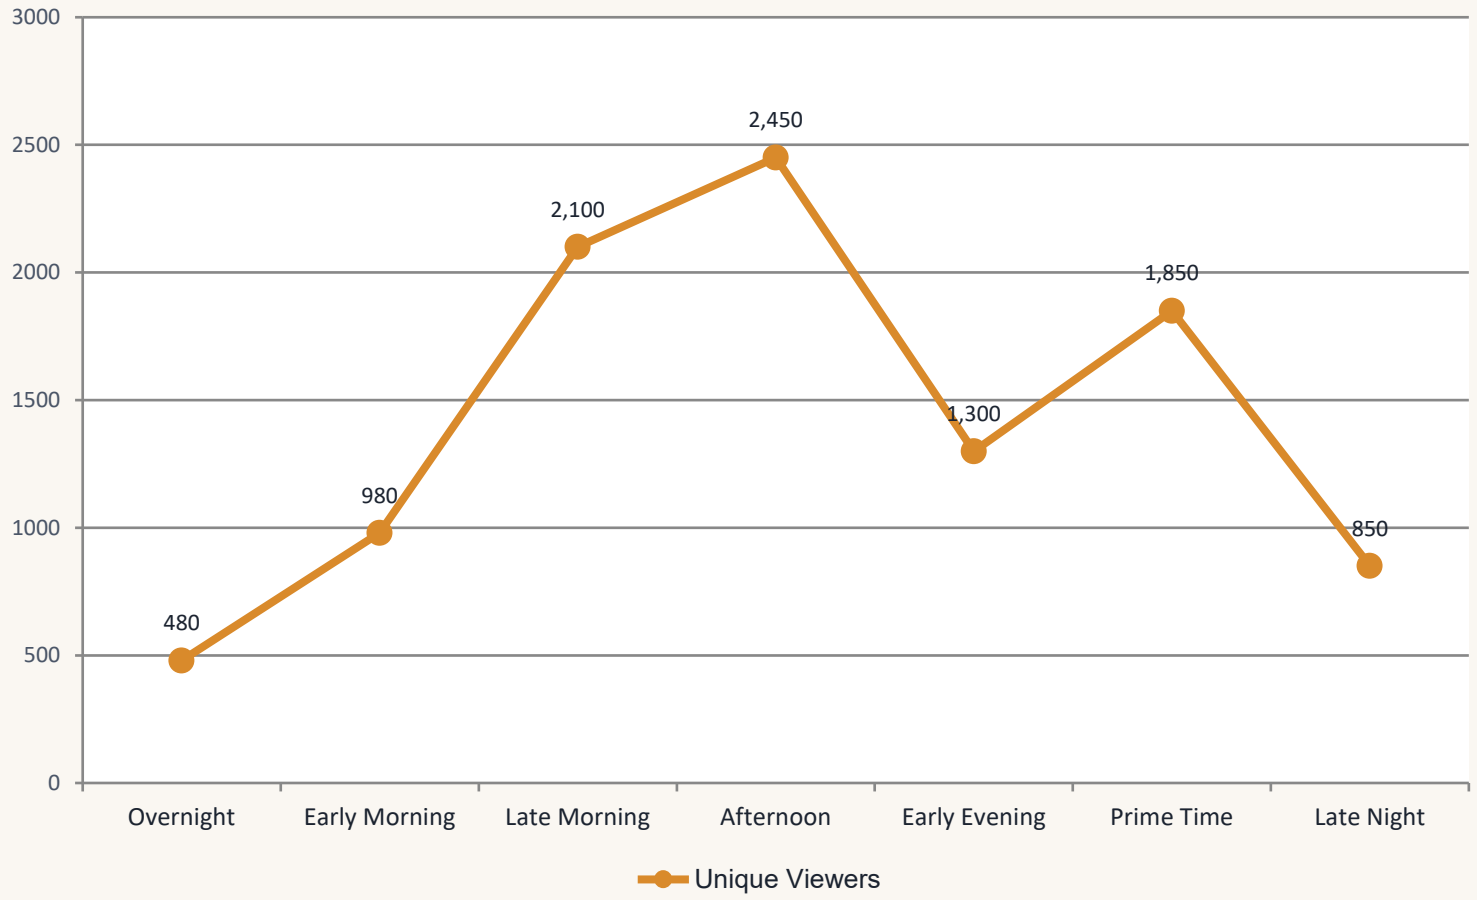
Monday (980) is 41% below the Saturday peak (1,660).

Sunday softens after church/family hours — opportunity for evening event content.

→ Build appointment-viewing franchises on Mon & Sun (see Slide 10).

The Death of Traditional Prime Time

Afternoon now rivals evening for unique viewers.



INSIGHT

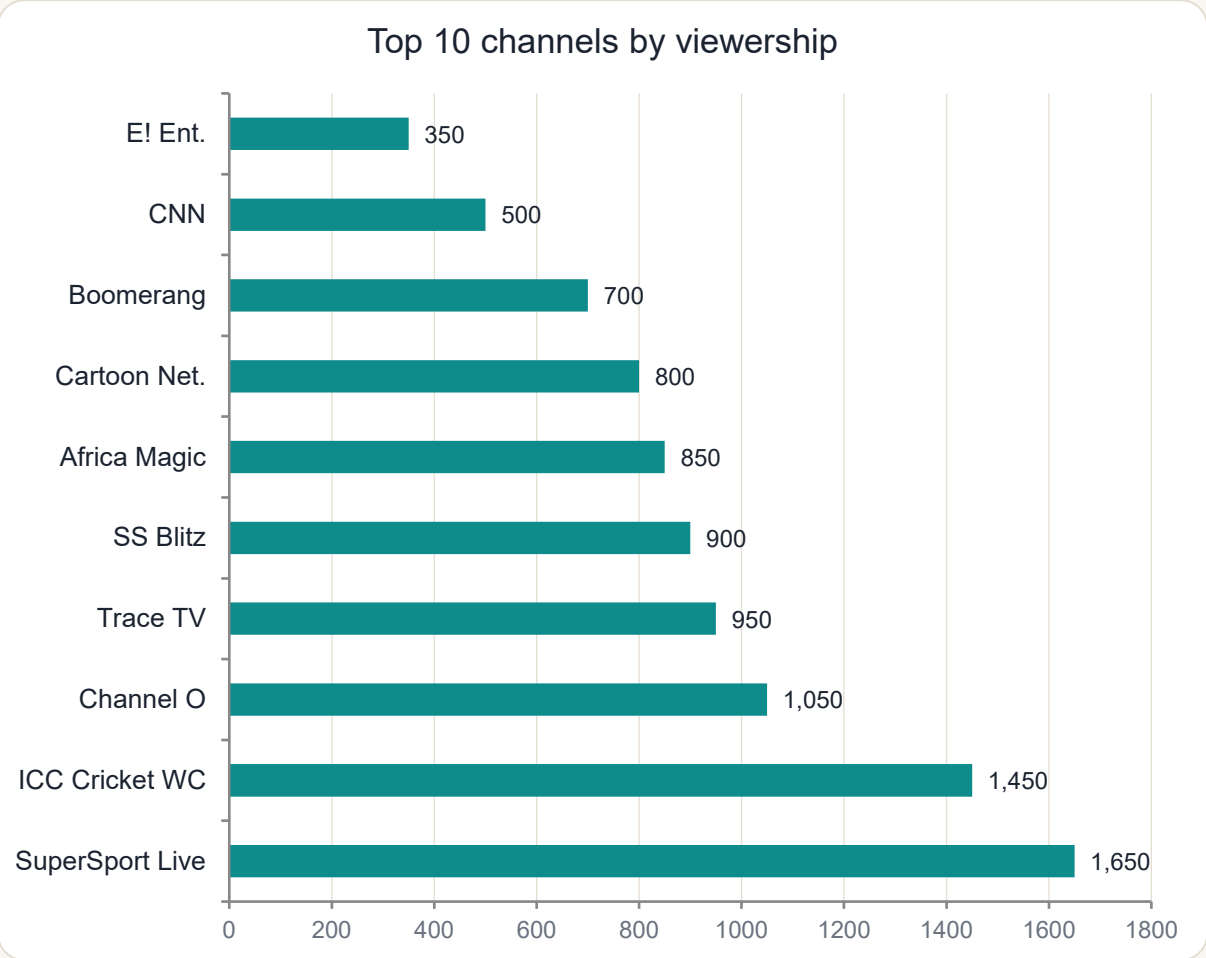
Twin peaks: afternoon & prime

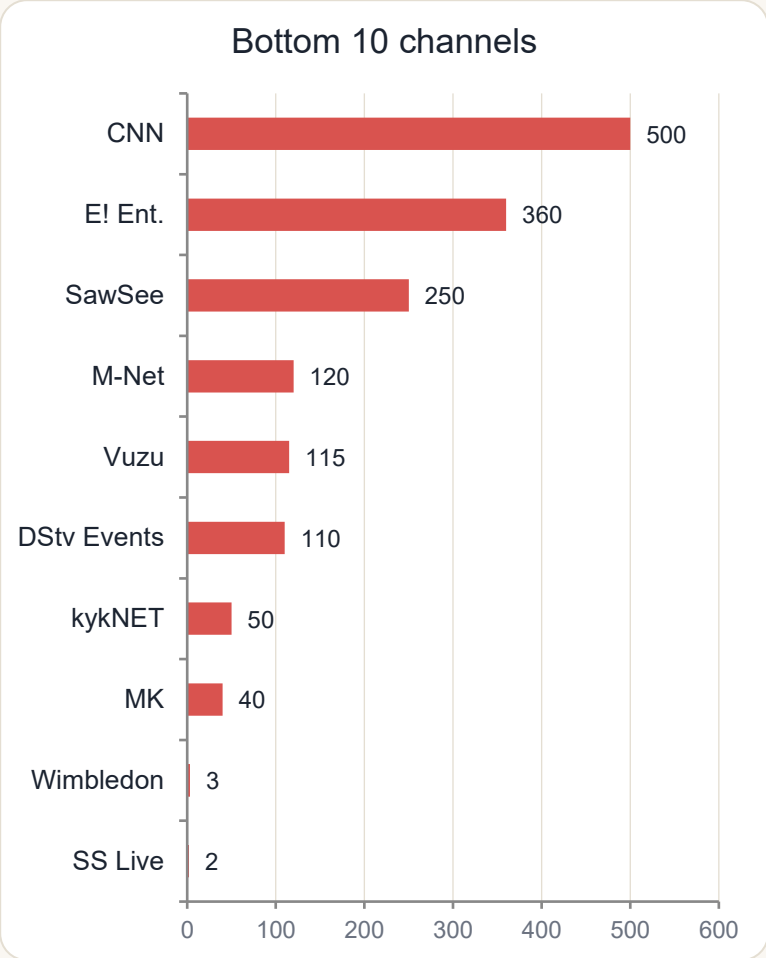
Afternoon peaks at 2,450 — likely youth + work-from-home segment.

Prime Time (1,850) is strong but smaller than afternoon — premieres should anchor 19:00–21:00.

→ Reserve premium ad inventory for Afternoon + Prime; keep Late Night for catalogue.

Top performers vs. underperformers





INSIGHT

Sport + music win

Live sport (SuperSport, ICC) is the #1 acquisition driver.

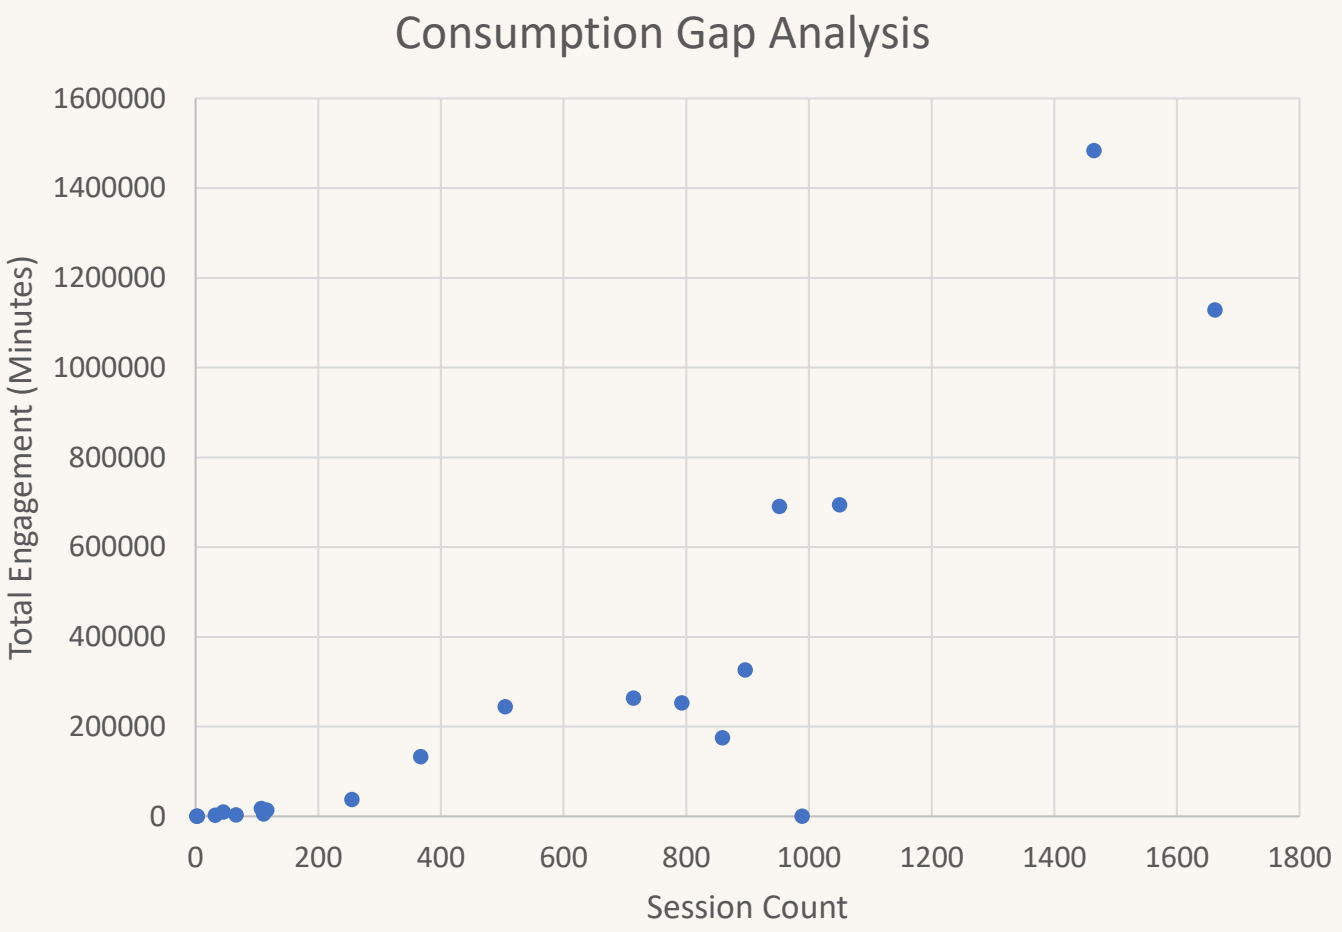
Underperformers are mostly niche / Afrikaans / paywalled events.

→ Renew sport rights, prune low-ROI channels.

The Catalyst: Live Sports as the Primary Gravity Well

Takeaway: Live Sports are not just content; they are the primary behavioral catalyst driving overall BrightTV platform dependency.

Consumption depth across the user base



INSIGHT

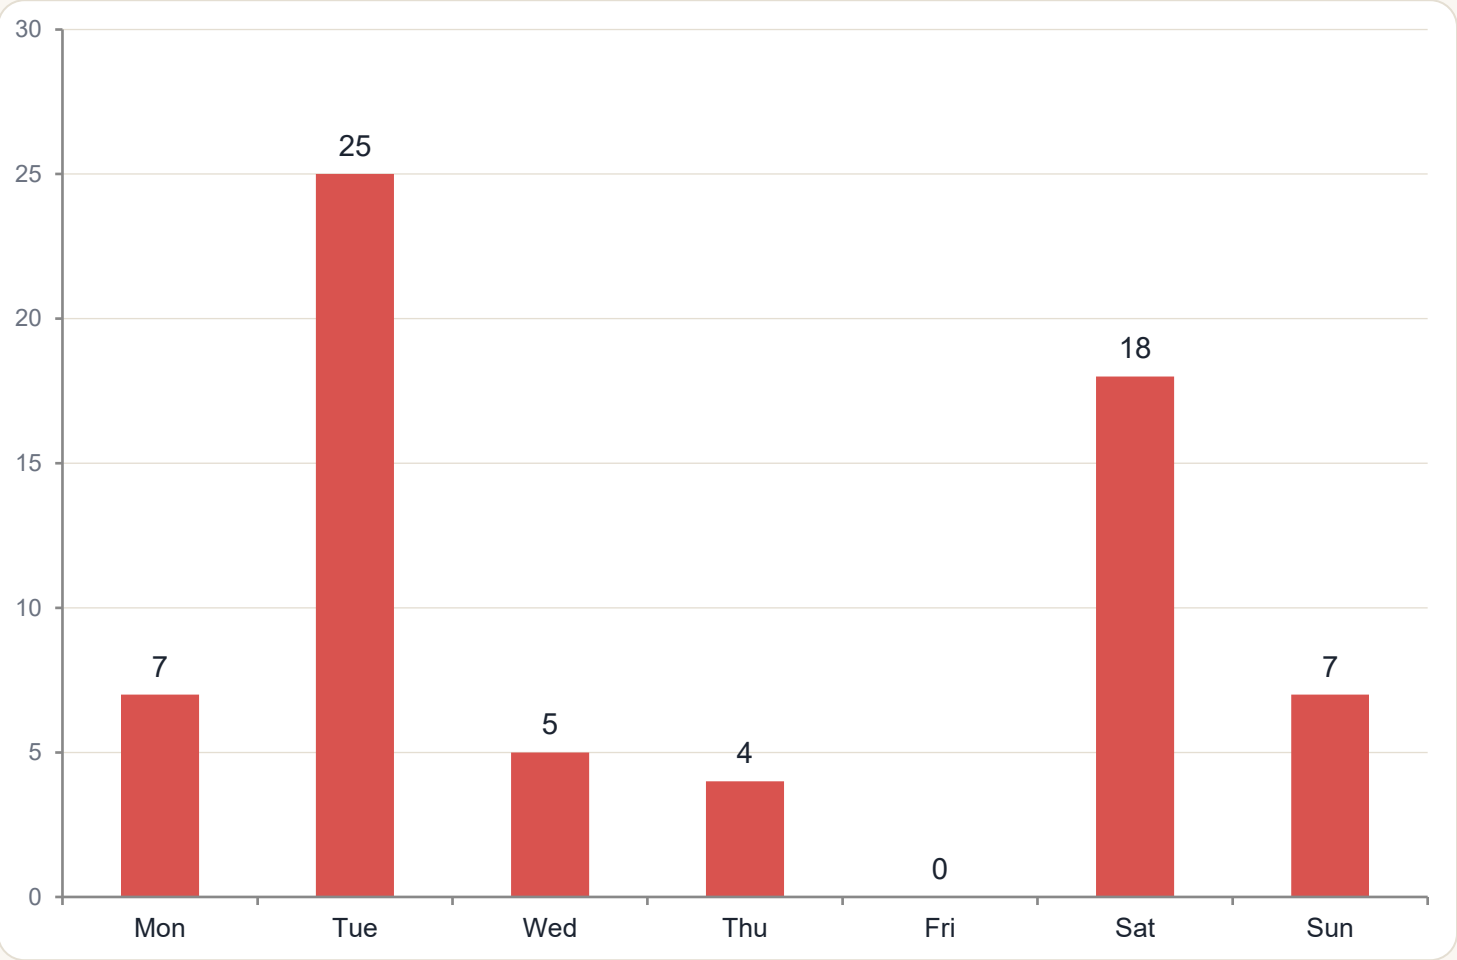
A power-law audience

A small group of super-users (~1,660 sessions) drives 1.1M minutes — disproportionate value.

The long tail of casual users sits below 100 sessions / 20K minutes.

→ Convert casual → habitual via personalised 'continue watching' nudges and 7-day free-trial after 3 sessions.

Breaks in transmission by day



RISK

Tuesday outages threaten retention

Tue: 25 breaks | Sat: 18 breaks — both fall on high-viewership days.

Friday is break-free — proof the platform CAN run cleanly.

Saturday — CATASTROPHIC : coincides with peak sports volume. Direct churn risk on highest-value day.

Diagnose Tue/Sat backend load patterns; SLA target of 99.5% uptime.

Lifting Monday & Sunday consumption

MONDAY

Monday Night Premieres

- Drop new local drama episodes 19:30 (binge-tease 1–2 episodes weekly)
- Live football wrap-up & analysis show after weekend fixtures
- Reality TV launch slot — auditions / dating formats popular with 18–34s
- Cliffhanger soapie finales to seed Tuesday return

SUNDAY

Sunday Family Block

- Family movie premiere 18:00 (Disney/animated rotation)
- Live faith & gospel music block 09:00–12:00
- Sunday Night Live: comedy specials & local stand-up
- Sport documentaries / 'Greatest Matches' replays at 20:00

Five plays to grow the FY subscription base

01

Tiered pricing for under-served provinces

Launch a 'BrightTV Lite' R29/mo bundle in NC, FS, NW — low-cost tier to convert OTT-curious households on prepaid budgets.

02

Win the female viewer

Female share is only ~10%. Commission women-led local drama, lifestyle and reality formats. Co-market with retailers (Clicks, Dis-Chem).

03

Sport as the acquisition engine

Renew SuperSport / cricket rights and bundle highlights into the entry tier — sport is the #1 viewership driver.

04

Convert casual to paid

Personalised 'continue watching' nudges, 7-day free trial after 3 sessions, and family-pack upsell at billing.

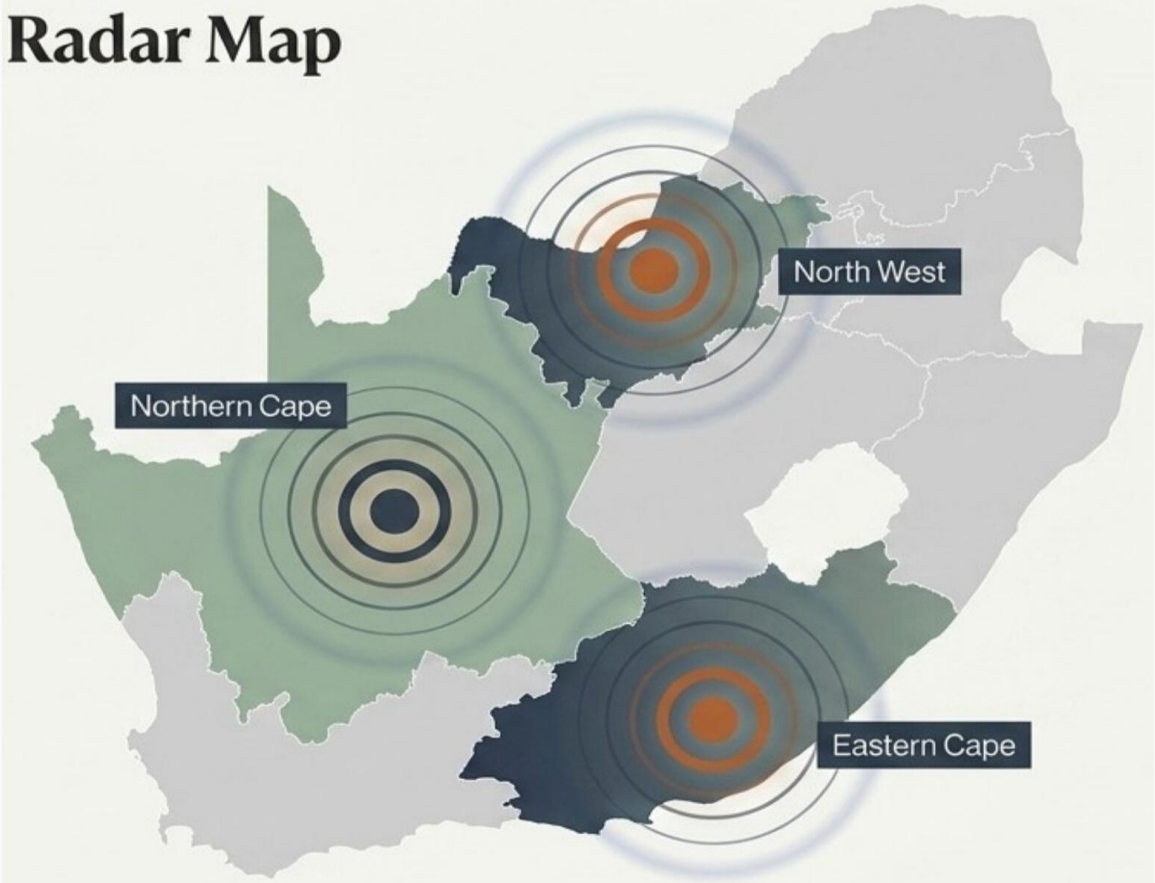
05

Reduce service breaks

Tuesdays (25 breaks) and Saturdays (18) hurt retention. Invest in CDN & encoder upgrades — target < 5 breaks/day.

Localised Geographic Expansion

Shift surplus marketing budget away from saturated Gauteng to high-potential, low-density regions.



Target Provinces

Northern Cape

Critically low — only 234 viewers

North West

353 viewers — large untapped diaspora

Eastern Cape

706 viewers — strong rural demand signal

Tactic: hyper-localised, ground-level marketing + regional content curation in vernacular languages.
